Glades Sugar House Road Assured When State Gives R-W Across Prison Land

Tuesday's action in Tallahassee by the Internal Improvement Fund trustees in granting one mile of 100 foot road right-of-way across Glades State Prison Farm lands to the new Glades Sugar House northeast of Belle Glade, comes as good news to the Palm Beach County Commission who two weeks ago were refused the same request.

Granting of the much-needed right-of-way and building of the proposed new road to the mill will alleviate traffic at the intersection of SR 15 and Airport Road, according to County Commissioner Paul Rardin, Canal Point, who assured a delegation from Belle Glade Monday that full and complete cooperation would be forthcoming from the County Board in solving the traffic problems in the Glades. Commissioner Rardin expressed delight today over action by the Tallahassee group and said that construction of the proposed new road will start in the immediate future.

The 100-foot right of way will provide a second route to U. S. 441 from the mill site east of Belle Glade.

State Prison Director Louis Wainwright argued against the grant declaring the road, which will run through the state prison farm, would increase prison security problems.

But Gov. Farris Bryant and other Cabinet members said they felt failure to grant the right of way would hamper operation of the 51-member co-op's big mill.

The new road will give the co-op a second route for trucks that will carry cane cut from 22,000 acres of member land into the mill for grinding and out again for shipment to refineries.

The Cabinet, sitting as the Trustees of the Internal Improvement Fund, also sold 208 acres of land to another sugar company Tuesday.

U. S. Sugar Corp. bought the land for $25,901, a figure based on Engineer William Kidd's appraisal value of $124 an acre.

The company had asked to buy the land last August, but Trustees postponed action until an on the spot survey of area land values could be made and a favorable report on the proposed sale brought action by the Trustees.

A package of eight assorted bulbs will cost only $2.00. Minter Collins is general chairman of the campaign, and A. J. Gamot and Dr. R. C. Lane are team captains.

Proceeds from the light bulb sale will be used to help finance the Lions Club sight conservation program and other worth-while community activities.

Last week on Saturday in front of Echols Grocery the parents sold tasty home made cakes in their first money raising effort of the school year. Beginning this week they will sell subscriptions to The Everglades News and for their air conditioning fund they will receive a handsome share of the $2.00 per year subscription price. The price of The Everglades News is the same as it was the day it was established in March back in 1924. So, here is your opportunity to subscribe for your local newspaper and assist the school parents in a splendid project.

Department of Agriculture

To wipe out hog cholera in Florida we're going to need the co-operation of every hog owner, including those who keep only a few head.

Our Florida Hog Cholera Eradication committee has spent a lot of time and effort in the past two years preparing for an all-out program to wipe out this costly swine disease within our state.

When Congress appropriates money to start a nationwide eradication program (action is expected soon), and the U. S. Department of Agriculture decides how the funds shall be used in co-operating with state programs, we expect to be ready to get our Florida program underway.

Intensive education among our hog farmers, and extensive vaccination of pigs to protect them against the disease, are two important procedures which the state committee has proposed.

In the latest monthly report of new cholera outbreaks in the state, I found an item that gave me some concern. After I inquired into the details, I'm convinced the educational part of our forthcoming program is going to be a big task—and a vitally important one.

The item referred to concerned a Polk county herd of 100 hogs. The local veterinarian had reported 60 of the animals were ill with cholera. The final outcome was that the owner lost the entire herd. The reason: he had introduced unvaccinated pigs to his premises and failed to have them vaccinated after he bought them. This, in spite of the fact that he had had his herd wiped out by cholera about two years previously and, ignoring urgent warnings by the veterinarian, had continued to use the same premises for more unvaccinated animals.

"I did my level best to convince him he was just throwing money away if he didn't have his pigs protected by vaccination," the veterinarian said. "But he, and a lot of other hog owners, just don't want to be bothered. When their hogs get sick, they call me—but then it's too late."

The farmer had been buying his pigs from other farmers in the area. I wondered if the cost of vaccination was a hindrance to more widespread adoption of this important protection. "I don't think so," the veterinarian said. "My usual charge is only 75 cents a head for vaccination, and the vaccine and serum are free—furnished by the state. That small investment could save an animal worth a lot more, but I can't seem to get that across to the owners."

At one location where this veterinarian had been called to vaccinate a few pigs for a couple of owners, there was a long row of pens, each with only a few hogs. "What about the rest of these animals?" the veterinarian asked. "Do these other folks want their pigs vaccinated, too?" Nobody else seemed to be interested, he was informed. In other words, they just didn't want to be bothered.

Winding up his remarks after I had discussed his problem, he added: "But it isn't just the hog owners who neglect to protect their animals. I find the same attitude many times among cattle owners—they just don't want to be bothered with vaccination to protect their animals against brucellosis (Bangs' disease) so they continue to lose calves."

You can see that education is going to be a big job once we start on hog cholera eradication. But our state committee, which includes representatives from all segments of the swine industry plus Extension Service, universities, experiment stations and State and Federal livestock regulatory officials, has laid the ground work for an intensive effort. This will be handled by county committees, and even local committees in areas where hog population is heavy.

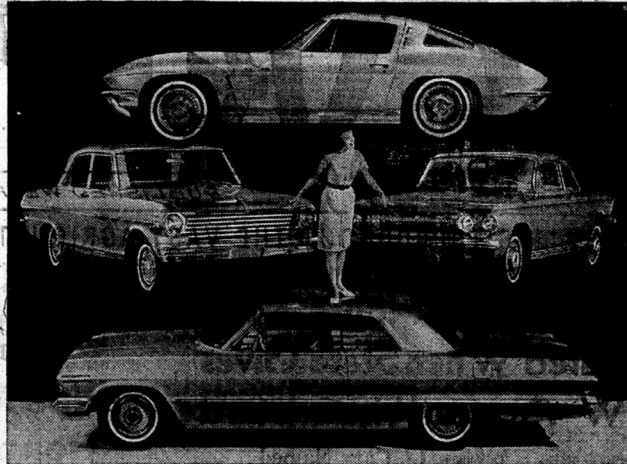

Also, it is planned to promote the widest possible vaccination of hogs on a purely voluntary basis for the first six months after official start of the eradication program. After that, however, vaccination will be mandatory.

After the first six months, no hogs may be moved in Florida from farm to farm or through stockyards and livestock markets back to farms unless they have been vaccinated against cholera at least 21 days prior to movement. Also, any hogs passing through stockyards and livestock markets which have not been vaccinated against cholera at least 21 days prior thereto may be sold only for slaughter.

The problem of what to do about wild hogs has been considered by the state committee. Here's the answer: Once vaccination of all domestic hogs has been accomplished, and every farmer vaccinates all of his pigs as they come along each year, we can let the wild hogs take care of themselves. All properly vaccinated pigs will be protected so, if any pockets of infection exist among wild hogs, they are due to disappear as the animals die off. Cholera is a deadly killer. No cure is known. When it's established on a statewide basis, continued vaccination of new pigs at the proper age should keep Florida's swine free of cholera.

Lytal Is Vice Pres. State Association

This being election year, it has particular significance for County Commissioner Lake Lytal who has two victories to his credit and no opposition in the general election in November.

Cane Harvest Will Bring Problems

A fast growing sugar industry in the Everglades is causing officials in the western part of Palm Beach County to anticipate a severe traffic problem. Cause of the traffic problem, according to Glades officials, will be the huge trucks to be used in hauling cane to the mills—an operation expected to get underway early in November.

Fully aware of the situation is County Commissioner Paul Rardin, Canal Point, who told a delegation of Belle Glade officials Monday, that every effort will be made to bring about methods of smoothing out the expected traffic snarl.

He said the county has already completed Duda Road extension and the state is rebuilding Vinegar Bend and Okelanta roads to help carry the expected traffic. In addition, Rardin told the delegation, recent conferences with state officials, have promise of bringing needed right-of-way for Sugar House Road which will open an entirely new route from field to mill and will take a large amount of traffic off Airport Road.

The delegation told the commission that the sugar cane harvest would bring large numbers of trucks over Ice Plant Road, Airport Road and State Roads 441 and 80. In addition to the harvest trucks—55 footers hauling 20 tons of cane—this same network of roads will have to handle traffic from the vegetable fields and autos belonging to workers in the sugar industry.

Belle Glade Chief Charles Goodlett told the commission that special lanes to handle the truck traffic will be set up through and around that community.

Commissioner Rardin summed up the situation saying "I do not view with alarm the present road problems in the Glades. I view those problems with sincere interest and deep concern and welcome every dollar of the multi-million expenditures being made by the many new sugar concerns. I feel sure that the road problem, with the full cooperation of the County Commission, the State Road Department and the affected cities, will ultimately be solved to the satisfaction of all concerned."

The oldest incorporated trade association in the country, the United States Brewers Association, was organized in 1862... the same year that

IN FLORIDA, a handful of determined patriots in Tampa fought for 2 days, finally preventing an intended invasion by two Union ships, which fled. All Florida cheered this feat with glasses of beer.

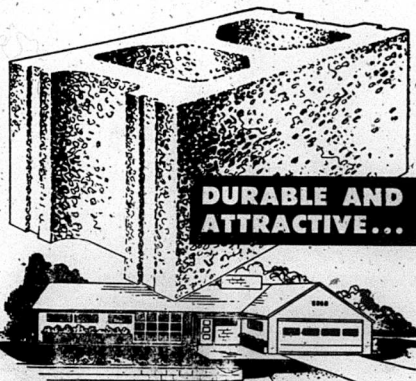

For even then, beer was Florida's traditional beverage of moderation. Beer still provides enjoyment for Floridians, and a good living for many of them — not only the employees of the Brewing Industry itself, but also for Florida farmers and other suppliers of the materials brewers use.

TODAY, in its centennial year, the United States Brewers Association still works constantly to assure maintenance of high standards of quality and propriety wherever beer and ale are served.

Christian Science Group Of Canal Point

"Reality" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon at Christian Science church services Sunday. Paul's advice to the Philippians is included in the Scriptural readings: "Finally, brethren, whatever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things" (Philippians 4).

Among the selections to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy is this brief definition of reality: "Reality is spiritual, harmonious, immutable, immortal, divine, eternal" (p. 335).

The Golden Text is from Deuteronomy (32): "Ascribe ye greatness unto our God. He is the Rock, his work is perfect."

University's Museum Tells Story Of Past

Five panel displays and a diorama at the Florida State Museum in Gainesville portray in vivid form more than 8,000 years of the state's history.

In its newly-modernized front hall, the Museum presents the story of man from his first appearance in Florida, some 10,000 years ago, up to about the time of Christ.

The first display reveals man's probable route as a big game hunter across Alaska and the United States. The earliest projectile points known for Florida are exhibited and compared with those from other parts of the country. A diorama represents how mastodons were killed by early Floridians.

Exhibits also reveal the transition from the spear to the bow and arrow. The same panel includes other tools of the period and a picture of the excavation of a site known to have been occupied between 3000 and 1000 B. C.

Another panel records the manufacture of the first clay vessels in the United States—which were made about 2000 B. C. The variety in shapes and decorations of clay vessels is illustrated. Of particular note are the first containers with flat bottoms and straight sides.

A final panel tells the story of the great changes that took place in Florida between 500 B. C. and the birth of Christ—changes that were reflected in the new pottery, new tools, and greatly increased population.

The institution, a unit of the University of Florida, is considered one of the leading museums of natural science and history in the Southeast. Its collections are extensive and have been growing steadily since the Museum began 40 years ago. Admission is free and the Museum is open from 9:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. on weekdays from 1 p. m. to 5 p. m. on Sundays and holidays.

The Museum is another reason Governor Farris Bryant and the Florida Development Commission are urging Floridians to vacation in their own state this summer.

The area around Gainesville offers many attractions besides the Museum and the University of Florida campus. Gold Head Branch State Park, for example, has magnificent lakes and a scenic ravine; it is located east of Gainesville on Florida 21 near Keystone Heights. And O'Leno State Park on the Santa Fe River is on U. S. 441 and 11 northwest of Gainesville.

Legal Council For Persons Charged With State Felonies

TALLAHASSEE — Supreme Court Chief Justice B. K. Roberts has suggested to the reorganized Judicial Council that they study a proposal to require all persons charged with felonies have legal counsel when appearing in court.

The courts now are only required to provide an attorney for persons accused in capital cases or for those unable to defend themselves.

Roberts, chairman of the recently reactivated council, said there was a trend in the U. S. Supreme Court to permit release of criminals who were convicted of felonies without legal counsel.

The Judicial Council held a one-day organizational session in the law library of the Supreme Court building, electing as vice chairman T. S. Combs, a lay member from Tallahassee.

Mrs. C. E. Williams is substitute teacher, this week, in Mrs. Sara Thomas' fifth grade at the Pahokee Elementary School.

Insects Costing Many Billions

GAINESVILLE—Hungry insects are eating holes in our agricultural economy.

Insects cause agricultural losses of at least 4-billion dollars annually in the U. S., estimates James Brogdon, entomologist with the Florida Agricultural Extension Service.

"To combat these and other pests, pesticides are needed. Florida uses large amounts of these chemicals to control pests on citrus, vegetables and other crops and livestock.

"Pesticides are valuable agricultural and home gardening aids, but mishandled they can be dangerous. To help eliminate this danger the Florida Agricultural Extension Service is sponsoring a series of eight one-day pesticide schools in different parts of the state this fall. The schools will emphasize the correct use of insecticides and other agricultural chemicals," Brownlow explains.

The schools will show that pesticides can be used safely. Extension agents and representatives of other educational agencies, industrial organizations and local store owners will be shown how to instruct others in proper use of pesticides, according to Brogdon.

Chairman Roy W. Russell of the Florida Probation and Parole Commission has appealed to employers to provide jobs for men and women eligible for parole. He said the state prison system is dangerously overloaded with 8,000 inmates.

Mermaids of Weeki Wachee are required to take vitamin supplements to restore lost energy and calories after swimming in the constant 74.2 degree water.

Joint Meeting Of Two Garden Clubs

The annual buffet, supper and joint meeting of the Pahokee Garden Club, the Canal Point Garden Club and the Sod Busters was held at the Community Building in Canal Point, Tuesday evening, with Mrs. Jess Elliott, president of the Pahokee Garden Club, presiding. Husbands of the club members were invited guests.

Colored slides were shown by Mrs. Don Hillier, which were taken on her trip, this summer, to Newfoundland and Nova Scotia; and by Mrs. Elliott who showed slides of the Christmas decoration displays, and also close-ups of flowers, some of which were taken in her own garden.

Mrs. Jess Elliott was general chairman of the event, and the Pahokee Garden Club had charge of the program and tables. The Canal Point Garden Club decorated the hall with shades of pink, using La-France hibiscus and coral vine.

Visitors were Mrs. Emma Wheeler, Mrs. Ellis Walston, Mrs. Evelyn Lair, J. H. Howell, Mr. and Mrs. Chann White, Will A. Parsons and Rev. T. C. O'Steen.

Record Number At University Of Fla.

GAINESVILLE—A total of 13,787 students are enrolled for the first semester at the University of Florida, Registrar R. S. Johnson announced this week (9-17).

Last year's enrollment for the first term was 13,634. As anticipated, freshmen enrollment dropped while transfer students increased by more than 109 per cent. Johnson said the drop in freshmen enrollments and the increase in transfer students had been predicted and the University had prepared for it. It was caused, he said, by the expanding junior college program in Florida.

Construction Is Way Up In Price

A sudden spiral in construction costs had county commissioners puzzled Monday when they learned that bid prices of road improvements was jumping some 20 percent over preliminary cost estimates.

Reason for the jump in prices went unanswered but County Engineer Steve Middleton assured the commission that he was conducting a state-wide check to determine if this area is the only spot in the state being effected by price hikes from contractors.

In one instance which concerned improvement of three subdivision streets, bid price on the job was 1.70 a foot more than the original estimate. In fact the price climb caught the project even before plans for the work was completed. Middleton said the job estimate started at $3.50 a foot, jumped to $4.60 before plans were completed and the lowest bid for the work was $5.25.

A delegation of property owners from Madden, Willow and Melaleuca Roads who had petitioned for the road improvements, asked the commission to proceed with the work despite the cost increase. The commission voted to award the contract to the low bidder.

In another instance the price ran some $11,000 over estimates for completion of road and bridge work in Polo Club Estates. The board also voted to go ahead with the project and to complete work in the subdivision. Middleton set cost of the Polo Club Estate work at $38,100. The commission said the work will eventually be paid for by a bonding company which held a performance bond on the sub division when it was first approved by the commission and filed for record.

Sure, she's a grand old flag!
That's why we salute her.
That's why we pledge allegiance to her.

That pledge, in its simplest terms, is another way of saying, "Count me in. You're my country and I love you and need you. Your problems are my problems, and I'm with you all the way."

Your country's biggest single problem is the perpetual responsibility for keeping the peace its people want. You can help with this problem by remembering this:

Peace costs money. Money for military and industrial strength. Money for science and education. And money saved by individuals — by you — to help keep the economy strong. Bonds provide this money.

If it didn't say Chevrolet on the flanks of the superb automobile you see here, you'd have a hard time proving it's a low-priced car. IT'S EXCITING!

of others have started to sag and sigh: new flush and dry rocker panels under the doors to guard against rusting . . . self-adjusting brakes . . . Delcotron generator for longer battery life. If you ever wondered why Chevrolet leads its field, a drive in this '63 should answer all your questions.

GO CORVAIR for '63-IT'S EXCITING!

63 CORVAIR MONZA CONVERTIBLE

Hard as it may be to believe, this year's Chevy II is better, better than last year's and better than anything in its class. It combines all the new easy-care features of the big Chevrolet with its own wonderful attributes of parkable size, four- or six-cylinder fuel economy and interiors that'd do justice to cars with twice its price and half its charm.

Change it? Calm yourself, nobody's going to mess with a winner like this one! We did add self-adjusting brakes and a more fully aluminized muffler; interiors and outside trim are refined a bit, but the rest is pure Corvair with all the over-the-road goodness that implies. Oh yes, we changed the taillights so all those people you pass will know you're driving a '63.
